

Accelerated Patient Safety Programme

03 - 06 October 2016

Hotel Football, Manchester, UK

Do you want to develop safer systems of care?

Join us on this intensive programme exploring how to make engaging and practical improvements to patient safety.

With the support of the Institute for Healthcare Improvement (IHI) and the Advancing Quality Alliance (AQuA), you'll learn the vital skills and knowledge you need to develop and implement safer care systems in your role and organisation.

This is an exciting opportunity to connect with colleagues from across Europe, and share your enthusiasm for safety improvement.

Whilst it is ideally suited to senior healthcare leaders and individuals, no previous knowledge of improvement skills is needed, just a passion for improving patient safety.

About the Programme

Tried and tested across the world, this four-day programme (03 – 06 October 2016) will be led by expert faculty from the IHI and AQUA.

Attendees will be guided through global improvement success stories, take part in immersive learning sessions, and receive dedicated support to adapt a framework of safe systems care to their individual environments.

Each of the four days will be tailored to meet individual needs, with all participants expected to achieve the following core objectives:

- Understanding the skills, theory, and practical tools critical to develop successful patient safety programmes
- Using different diagnostic tools to determine the extent and depth of safety issues
- Identifying the leadership skills necessary to lead safety in their areas of responsibility
- Designing a reliable solution to safety problems, including considerations on human factors and teamwork
- Creating a plan to apply these learning principles to their individual environment, alongside their senior leader

Cost

The programme is priced at £2,000 (ex VAT) per participant, including all programme materials, meals, and refreshments throughout the day.

Accommodation is not included in this cost, however discounted rates are available for delegates who wish to stay at Hotel Football.
